11th November, Faculty of Arts, Degree Hall

9.30 h Greetings from the authorities

10.00 h, Juan Antonio Quirós (University of the Basque Country, ES), Introduction

10.15 h Ross Faith (University of Oxford, UK), The moral economy of the family farm: early medieval England and Provence

11.00 h Maite Iris García Collado (University of the Basque Country, ES), What's for dinner tonight? Diet and food production strategies as a proxy of peasant agency in early medieval Iberia

Break

12.00 h David Larreina (CENIEH, Burgos, ES), Adaptive ironmaking technologies in Medieval times: know-how and commoners

12.40 h. João Pedro Vicente Tereso (University of Porto, PT), Sites, plants and gestures: archaeobotanical approaches to Medieval and Post-Medieval agricultural communities and landscapes

Lunch

16.15 h Igor Santos Salazar (University of the Basque Country, ES), Elites campesinas, bienes comunes y construcción del poder político en el norte de Italia y en el norte de España (900-1050)

17.00 h Eva Svensson (Karlstads universitet, SE), Peasants; innovators, commodity producers, traders and community builders. Connecting the past with the present

12th November, Faculty of Arts, Degree Hall

10.00 h Giovanni Levi (University Ca' Fossari, Venezia, IT), Microhistoria y estudio de los grupos subalternos

10.45 h. Carlos Tejerizo (INCIPIT, Spanish National Research Council, ES), Between resilience and resistance: towards an archaeology of peasant societies through the long duration

Break

12,00 h José Miguel Lana Berasain (Public University of Navarra, ES), On Peasantry, Communities and Property Rights. Some Remarks from the Commons' Literature

12,45 h Anna Stagno (University of Genova), Archaeology of sharing practices: investigating the material evidence of mountain marginalization in Europe (18th- 21st c. AD)

Lunch

16.15 h Margarita Fernández Mier (University of Oviedo, ES), Trabajando en común. Resistencia y adaptación de las comunidades locales en la gestión de los comunales

17.00 h Josu Narbarte (University of the Basque Country, ES), Landscape and social practices: Agrarian Archaeology in the Basque Country

Break

18.00 h Isabel Alfonso Antón (Spanish National Research Council, ES), Conclusiones

The seminar Archaeology and History of Peasantry 2 will be held the Faculty of Arts of the University of the Basque Country in Vitoria-Gasteiz in the framework of the Research Project 'Peasantry Agency and Sociopolitical Complexity in North-western Iberia in Medieval Ages' funded by the Spanish Ministry of Economy and Competitiveness and the Research Group .

The main aim of these workshops is to analyze peasantries as historical subjects from a wide variety of thematic, disciplinary and chronological perspectives, in its social, economic and political dimensions.

Although during the 60s and 80s the peasantry had a central role in the social history of preindustrial societies of Europe, in recent decades this role has been progressively diluted. However, the impact of the 2007-2008 crisis, the emergence of an archeology of the peasantry and the renovation of theoretical frames have meant new developments on Social History. But discipline fragmentation limits the possibility to establish cross-cultural and transversal confrontation in order to promote new theoretical developments. The conferences 'Archaeology of Peasantry' are trying to fill this gap, creating platforms for discussion about preindustrial peasantries in Europe.

The problems which will be studied in this workshop are related, mainly, to the theoretical approaches with which the peasantry and its social and political agency are studied: agrarian production; the territorial articulation of rural landscapes; the processes of transformation of rural settlements, the forms of inequality within peasant communities, or the articulation of local societies as a space for integration between peasant communities and other external agents. In addition, special attention will be paid to the implications and the reasons why it is important to continue studying peasant societies nowadays.

The first seminar was held in Vitoria-Gasteiz in November 2018.

Organization:

GIPyPAC

Grupo de Investigación en Patrimonio y Paisajes Culturales

Archaeology and History of Peasantry 2. From the Late Prehistory to the European Common Agriculture policy

Vitoria-Gasteiz, 11th-12th November 2019

XIII Conference on Medieval Archaeology in Northern Iberia

Supported by:

Proyect HAR2016-76094-C4-2-4

GOBIERNO DE ESPAÑA · MINISTERIO DE ECONOMÍA Y COMPETITIVIDAD

Universidad del País Vasco · Euskal Herriko Unibertsitatea

FACULTY OF ARTS UNIVERSITY OF THE BASQUE COUNTRY